

IN 634: PLACE BASED LEARNING

This course is designed as a model of the environment-based learning process with an emphasis on topics in social studies and geography. Students participate in an investigation of a local socio/environmental issue, focusing on the integrated relationship of environment to people and culture. Investigations involve field trips and studies of history, literature, ecological principles, and cultural connections, and include strategies for implementing EBL projects with K-12 students.

Credits: 3

Department: Education