

PTH 702: PHYSIOLOGY

The goal of this course is to prepare students to discuss how organ systems interact with each other to maintain homeostasis. This course addresses the structure and function of the body's systems at the molecular, cellular, tissue and organ levels. It also focuses on the development of organ systems within the embryo and fetus, and the role of genetics in heredity.

Credits: 4

Department: Physical Therapy