

PAS 626: CLINICAL REASONING

Utilizing common medical problems seen in out-patient primary care settings, the student applies knowledge and skills obtained in the didactic phase in order to formulate well-reasoned differential diagnoses and plans appropriate for various practice environments. This course emphasizes practice-based learning and system-based practice issues, especially regarding the PA's role within the interprofessional team.

Credits: 4

Department: Physician Assistant