

BIOL 327: IMMUNOLOGY

The physiology, cell biology, genetics, and health implications of the immune system, with emphasis on the experimental evidence and reasoning behind our current understanding. This course is required of students seeking to enter the clinical laboratory science program.

Credits: 3

Prerequisites:

BIOL 224 or permission of instructor. Alternate years.

Department: Biology