BIOL 328: BIOTECHNOLOGY

Techniques of molecular biology are used to study topics ranging from cell-cell signaling to evolution and ecology; this course is taught as a journal club in which students select, present and discuss a variety of current research papers using these techniques.

Credits: 3
Prerequisites:

BIOL 222. Alternate years. Department: Biology

1 Academic Catalog