PRST 314: DATA MINING

The course introduces techniques used in data mining projects. These include association, classification, clustering, prediction, sequential patterns, and decision trees where one or more of these techniques are used to meet the business data mining needs.

Credits: 3
Department: Business