

PRST 322: AUTHENTIC LEADERSHIP

This course is designed to provide students an opportunity to examine current research on "authenticity" as a characteristic of effective leaders and the role of core values to leadership credibility. Students will develop a deeper sense of who they are as leaders through a process of self-reflection and assessment of their emotional intelligence, adaptability, resilience and personal characteristics.

Credits: 3

Department: Business