

PRST 325: THRIVING AMIDST CHANGE

This course is designed to explore the complexities of change in its many forms, how change affects organizations and people with an emphasis on developing strategies and techniques for effectively managing change while leading yourself and others through change. Proven approaches to diagnosing change readiness and effective change management communication strategies will be key components of this coursework.

Credits: 3

Department: Business