

HIED 632: INQUIRY RESEARCH PROJECT I

The Inquiry Research Project is the culminating experience of the HIED program. You will identify an issue of interest and develop a central research question to examine in your thesis study. You will conduct a scholarly study under the supervision of your Inquiry Research Project Chair, present your findings to a committee of two in a graduate-level final paper, and explain/defend your study in a meeting with your committee members. The project chair will collaborate with you in identifying committee membership as you approach completion. Each of the two seven week sessions (HIED 632 and HIED 633) are 1.5 credit hours-totaling 3 credit hours.
